- Elephant experiences are offered daily.
- At Abu, a maximum of 12 guests can be accommodated on an elephant experience at any one time (but a maximum of 6 when walking with the elephants). If one of the elephants is pregnant or nursing a young one, this number may need to be adjusted on the day.

- Abu does not have a family room.
- Children between the ages of 6 and 16 years can be accommodated as a triple share in a standard twin room on an extra bed (maximum 2 extra beds available for this purpose at any one time). This may impact on space and comfort.
- Child rates will apply when the child is sharing with adults in the triple room, however the range of activities is limited as a result of the minimum age requirement of 13 years for the following activities: mokoro excursions and walks (game walks or walking with the elephants).
- Children between the ages of 6 and 16 years may participate in a sleep-out on the outdoor Star Bed provided they are accompanied by an adult.
- Elephant experiences cannot be booked on a private basis and as such all parties, including those with children between 6 and 16 years, share in these activities at the same time. Families travelling with children aged from 6 to 12 inclusive will be required to book private activities (at an extra charge).
- When booking sole use of Abu the minimum camp age restriction falls away, however, minimum age requirements for specific activities remain in place for safety reasons.
